Description :

Prsentation de l'diteurWhen wine tasting turns to murder.A serial killer is on the loose in Bordeaux. A local chief detective calls wine expert Benjamin Cooker to the crime scene of a brutal murder. The killer has left a strange calling card: twelve wine glasses lined up in a semi-circle with the first one filled with wine. Cooker is charged with the task of identifying the fabulous grand cru and is astonished by what he learns. A second victim is found, with two glasses filled. Is the killer intentionally leaving clues about his victims and his motives? Memories are jogged about the complicated history of Bordeaux during Nazi occupation. It was a dark time: weinfuhrers ruled the wine trade, while collaborationists and paramilitary organizations spread terror throughout the region. In present-day wine country, time is running out. Will Cooker and his young assistant Virgile solve the mystery before all twelve glasses are full? Jean-Pierre Alaux is a magazine, radio and television journalist when he is not writing novels in southwestern France. He is a genuine wine and food lover, and won the Antonin Carme prize for his cookbook La Truffe sur le Soufflé, which he wrote with the chef Alexis Plissou. Nol Balen lives in Paris, where he shares his time between writing, making records, and lecturing on music. He plays bass, is a music critic and has authored a number of books about musicians in addition to his novel and short-story writing. A twenty-two-book series A hit on television in France. I love good mysteries. I love good wine. So imagine my joy at finding a great mystery about wine, and winemaking, and the whole culture of that fascinating world. And then I find its the first of a series. I can see myself enjoying many a bottle of wine while enjoying the adventures of Benjamin Cooker in this terrific new series. William Martin, New York Times bestselling author A fine vintage forged by the pens of two very different varietals. It is best consumed slightly chilled, and never alone. You will be intrigued by its mystery, and surprised by its finish, and it will stay with you for a very long time. Peter May, prize-winning, international bestselling author An excellent mystery series in which you eat, drink and discuss wine as much as you do murders. Bernard Frank, Le Nouvel Observateur Benjamin Cooker uses his composure, erudition and intuition to solve heady crimes that take place in the exclusive and realistic world of grand cru wines. Jean-Claude Raspiengeas, La Croix Presentation de l'diteur When wine tasting turns to murder. A serial killer is on the loose in Bordeaux.
